

Jane Moran, Civil Engineer and Olympian

I'm Jane Moran; I am a Waterpolo player who went to the London Olympics; I am also a Civil Engineer; and I am also a Stuartholme Alumnae.

My time at Stuartholme, I look back on very fondly, there was a lot of sport, swimming waterpolo but the friendships I made at Stuartholme I still have. It obviously put me in good stead for my university in Engineering and my career in Engineering.

I would highly recommend Stuartholme to any parents looking to send their daughters to high school in Brisbane, just from my experience as a student here. I have also continued in a waterpolo coaching role since I left Stuartholme. I had my 10 year Reunion last year. I am more than 10 years out of the School and I am still coming up here every week coaching waterpolo. I love that there is a brand new swimming pool at Stuartholme and it is a world-class facility which the National Waterpolo league uses to compete against the best clubs in Australia. It is more than just a school pool. When I was at Stuartholme it was a tiny 6-lane skinny 25-metre thing. It really is world class! That is just one example of the facilities at the School. The grounds are really beautiful. Every time I have a visitor to Brisbane I bring them up to Stuartholme to see the grounds and where I went to school.
